What Jonesboro Did in Its School Crisis When Tax Hike Lost

Twice the voters of Hope School District have turned down by two to one a proposal to increase the tax millage from 35 to 40 — and the odds are it will be defeated when it comes up for the third time in Tuesday's school election. Certainly your editor will vote against it, and if you have any confidence in his sense of justice and business judgment you will do likewise.

Newspapers always draw the tough decisions. This is because they fight for Tomorrow—unlike the politician, whose goal is Today.

For nearly a decade our community and county have found their people deadlocked on the question of how to increase local tax revenue for the public schools — whether by piling more and more millage on the small taxpayers who have probably already assessed all that they own — or by broadening the assessment base so that all property is covered and the millage demand thereby lessened.

All the 40 years this writer has lived in Arkansas he has fought for assessment equalization and stauncher support of the public schools, first at El Dorado, and then here. There have been outstanding county-wide reassessment programs in perhaps a third of Arkansas' counties, notably Pulaski, Union, Columbia, Craighead, and Miller — the last-named having added $1,900,000 to the assessment books just recently. But Hempstead's civic record is one of the worst in the state.

When your editor came here in 1929 Hempstead's assessment total was 8 million dollars, the public schools were limited to 18 mills — and the resultant tax take supported the Hope School District without either state or federal help. But the 18-mill ceiling was abolished and the schools were given the right to ask for an unlimited tax—which caused the school folks to imagine (most foolishly) that they no longer had any responsibility to see that a fair assessing base be maintained.

Today the last complete assessment figure on Hempstead county's books shows a total of 14 million dollars, and Hope School District's millage, which has gone up from 18 to 35, doesn't produce enough tax dollars to run the most basic of local institutions. Why not, when the millage has doubled? For an obvious reason: That 8-million-dollar assessment of 1929 if restated in terms of 1962's depreciated dollar would be 24 millions—even if we hadn't put up one new building, increased livestock herds by a single animal, or planted a lone pine tree.

We have let the assessing business go to ruin, and now inflation threatens the same fate for millage. For as the tax base declines we are asked for ever higher rates — 5 mills now — 5 more in another three or four years. In some districts the millage approaches 60 — and still fails to be as effective as 18 mills was when property values were firmly established.

Progressive counties, as I remarked, have met the issue head-on by importing expert outside appraisers and re-valuing property for tax purposes. Hempstead has steadfastly refused to use outside appraisers. The one county-wide reassessment program which we authorized was made with local appraisers. But the campaign was not followed up, although it is a self-continuing program elsewhere.

PTA speakers proclaim there is a crisis in Tuesday's election and the 5-mill increase must be approved. But the crisis is far greater than they tell you, indeed. A news report in Hope Star for November 28 quotes one of the PTA people as saying the additional tax will pay the school teachers from $75 to $100 extra per year. But Hope teachers now are paid about $3,200 for 10 months, and car expense — vital in their work — cuts this down to $2,200, before deductions. It is common knowledge that as time runs out for the present teachers they can't be replaced for less than $1,000 more — and this means that Hope School District, with a budget already in trouble, has hanging over it an additional contingent liability of $100,000. To cover that alone would take 15 mills over and above the 5 mills you will vote on Tuesday. You simply aren't going to meet this crisis with millage alone.

What, then, is to be done in this emergency? There are three options: (1) Run the term as long as the money holds out and then close the schools down as a reminder of our community's failure; (2) Charge tuition to finish the year; or (3) Launch a public-support campaign of donations, in which this newspaper and the editor personally would contribute a year's taxes — approximately $1,200 combined.

The foregoing was discussed with several local men during the past 30 days. But I recalled that Jonesboro had a similar crisis in its public schools two years ago, and just before writing this Friday night I telephoned a Jonesboro friend and learned exactly what happened there.

Craighead county, unlike Hempstead, had launched a reassessment program with outside appraisers, and therefore the Jonesboro school tax was only 30 mills. But an expansion program was under way, and the board thought a 10-mill increase would cover it. In public meetings, however, the radicals pushed the proposed increase up to 15 mills — and the voters rejected it.

Jonesboro's schools were caught short and faced curtailment of the operating year. Public-spirited folks organized a 24-man Public School Advisory Committee, examined the school budget, cut it to the bone — and then went out on the street with a public canvass and raised enough money in donations to get the schools out of their jam.

That's what Hope can do here and now. And maybe that local committee would become the nucleus of an organization to put over a county-wide reassessment program with outside appraisers — on which there has been some fantastic heel-dragging for as long as the memory of man runneth.

Red Bombers Being Packed To Leave Cuba

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has started packing up its nuclear-capable jet bombers in Cuba and moving them to ports for shipment back to Russia, U.S. officials said today.

The first shipload is expected to move out soon. By agreement between Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy this and subsequent ships will be subject to U.S. naval observation as were the 42 nuclear missiles removed earlier this month.

Withdrawal of the bombers will complete the second phase of Khrushchev's nuclear weapons retreat from the Caribbean, the removal of the big missiles having constituted the end of the first and most dangerous phase.

But Top American officials foresee that remaining issues in the crisis may drag on unsettled for weeks or months.

A round of high-level talks here during the past two days appears to have served to sharpen rather than to soften the U.S.-Soviet disagreements over these remaining issues.

Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan is flying home this weekend to report to Khrushchev on his conferences with Kennedy and with Secretary of State Dean Rusk—as well as his earlier sessions at Havana with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Information from American sources indicates that Mikoyan will have to tell Khrushchev that Kennedy is unshakably determined to maintain an aerial watch over Cuba indefinitely unless reliable ground inspection is provided. Castro, in his meetings with Mikoyan, flatly refused to permit such inspection.

From Kennedy's viewpoint the issue of verification, which was originally promised by Khrushchev at the height of the Cuban crisis, is the most critical of the remaining Cuban issues, particularly in view of persistent claims of anti-Castro refugees that Soviet nuclear weapons have been hidden among Cuba's many caves.

At the same time it appears that from the Soviet viewpoint continued flights over Cuba by U.S. reconnaissance aircraft constitutes a difficult problem, and it is understood that Mikoyan told Kennedy that the Soviets considered the flights an irritant in American-Russian relations.

Mikoyan is understood to have pressed the President for agreement to issue without delay a formal non-invasion pledge which the Russians would prefer to have as a signed statement registered with the United Nations.

Kennedy is understood to have turned aside Mikoyan's argument with a counter-argument that the Cuban situation is still unsettled in the absence of verification that all nuclear weapons are being removed and in the absence of safeguards against their secret re-entry.

The 23-year-old man reached the West Berlin bank near the Reichstag building and was taken to a hospital for treatment for exposure.

CORNING, Ark. (AP)—Employees of the Clayton Shoe Co. of Corning rejected Thursday representation by the United Shoe Workers of America.

It was the third time in three years that the company employees have refused union efforts to organize. The vote Thursday was 149 against the union and 67 for the union.

In the first election, the union lost by six votes. Last year, employees turned down the union by 13 votes.

The plant, which makes ladies shoes, employs 270 persons.

A Majority in State Own Homes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The majority of Arkansas residents over 60 years old own their own homes, according to the 1960 Housing Census, a book of statistics devoted to housing of senior citizens.

The booklet reported that 186,634 of the 255,338 persons over 60 living in the state own their homes. The booklet is issued by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau.

The figures for Arkansas show that of the total who are 60 or older, 42,369 live alone; 35,196 live in two-person households in which they are the only person over 60 and 94,832 live in two person households in which both are 60 or older.

Corning Ups Population

CORNING, Ark. (AP)—Preliminary results of a special census taken this week in Corning show that the city's population has increased by 346 since 1960.

The Census Bureau began taking the count Tuesday at the request of the city council. If the preliminary figure stands, the city will get about $2,200 more in state turnback funds annually.

Red Chinese Begin Troop Withdrawals

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—The Chinese communists said today they were beginning their promised troop withdrawals from the Himalayan battlefield.

Indian troops peered through the mountain mists for confirmation of the Peking announcement, but it may be days before they can determine whether the Chinese are in fact pulling back to their self-set line.

A Peking Defense Ministry statement said the Chinese were moving back 12 1/2 miles behind what Peking calls the line of control of Nov. 7, 1959. The broadcast statement called on India to "promptly take corresponding measures." India has been insisting on a Chinese pullback to their Sept. 8, 1962 positions as a basis for negotiations.

The soldiers of the two countries have been in visible contact at only a few places on the northeastern front since the Chinese proclaimed a cease-fire Nov. 22 and promised a troop withdrawal Dec. 1.

Peking coupled its announcement of a withdrawal with a warning that it was seriously concerned over what it called "armed provocations" by Indian troops against Chinese positions in the past few days. India has denied that any troop movements have been undermining the Chinese cease-fire.

The official New China News Agency also said that the Indian government had failed to respond favorably to the Chinese peace proposals and had "continued to whip up war hysteria" and "solicit and received military assistance in large quantities from the United States and other Western countries."

India has repeatedly made clear that it objects to a provision of the Chinese cease-fire package on grounds that it would leave the Chinese in control of 2,000 square miles in Ladakh, in the northwest.

The Chinese news agency said Chinese Premier Chou En-lai wrote to Indian Prime Minister Nehru Nov. 28 that "only a handful of ill-intentioned people in the world want our two countries to keep on fighting."

Chou warned, however, that if China alone made the troop withdrawals this would not "prevent the recurrence of border clashes."

In a separate announcement, the Chinese news agency said 53 Indian military prisoners would be released Dec. 5.

At Tezpur, corps headquarters in northwest India, reporters said there was no indication what the Indian army plans to do, if anything, with territory vacated by the Chinese. This is a political question that the military is leaving to the government.

The Indian army continued to beef up its forces. Troops and equipment kept flowing to areas near the front. Trenches were dug Friday near all public buildings in Tezpur.

A snarl in the Indian-Pakistani agreement to begin talks on Kashmir was apparently smoothed out. Nehru issued a statement that "there has never been any question of preconditions or of any restriction on the scope" of the talks. A Pakistani Cabinet member said the statement cleared the air after a stormy reaction in Pakistan to a previous Nehru statement to Parliament that it would be "very harmful" to upset the present situation in Kashmir.

The Roar of Local Lions Is Not Frightening to the Many Needy Families at Christmas

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

The Lions are roaring and the wolves will be howling all because of this year's Lions Club Christmas Auction December 3-5, when two beautiful mink-style stoles will be given away to two Lucky Lady Lion Hunters.

Each beautiful man-made fur is beige and is similar in texture to seal skin. Manufactured by a fur house in St. Paul, Minn., such a classic mink-style stole complements any ensemble from suit to formal.

And what female doesn't dream of owning such a luxury? Who will be the Lady Lion Hunter seeking to land these Borglaska and Borganna stoles? Two of 50 local women will be the lucky recipients. The "hunters" will range from high school students to career girls to housewives, with only 10 to be wives of Lions.

Monday, the first night of the auction, there will be 50 in competition. The number will be reduced to 30 the second night, and only 15 will "go down to the wire" the last night.

A point system will be used to determine the winners. The Lions Auction will be held as usual, but each bid can be "credited" to one of the ladies in competition. For each legitimate bid 25 points will go to the contestant of your choice, or for each purchase 100 points will be given. Naturally, ones receiving the most points will last the longest in the competition and be the ultimate winners.

If the trade names of the beautiful stoles confuse you, here is an explanation. The Borglaska is 100% Darvan Nylril, and the Borganna is 100% orlon acrylic and 20% Darvan Nylril. Still unsure? A look in the window of the Ladies Specialty Shop, where they are being displayed, will erase any doubt about their loveliness.

Aside from the fun which the Lions and their buyers have each year at the Lions Auctions, the money accumulated for baskets of food for needy families is well worth the effort. Just last year 120 families received baskets of food valued at $15 each.

There has usually been a contest of sorts in connection with the Lions Club Christmas Auction. Sometimes it has been between local preachers, and sometimes between local politicians. A real goat has been moved to different victims' wards until he is "paid to leave."

But this is the first year that such a luxury item as a fur stole has been offered as an incentive for the Lions' cry, "Listen, Bid, and Buy." General chairman Haskell Jones must have put on a Thinking Cap with a built-in charm to have come up with the idea.

Gets Life Term Rap For Rape

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—A Washington County Circuit Court jury Wednesday sentenced Dill V. Watson, 30, of Fayetteville, to life imprisonment after he was found guilty of raping a six-year-old Farmington girl.

Big Increase in Arkansas

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Little Rock showed the largest increase for the Eighth Federal Reserve District in department store sales last week and in the four-week period ended Nov. 24, but reflected the only decrease for the year to date.

The Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis reported sales for the year were five per cent higher than last year. Memphis led with an eight per cent increase, seven per cent for seven smaller cities of the district, six per cent at Louisville and three per cent at St. Louis. Little Rock sales were down one per cent for the year.

Sales were up in all areas last week, led by a nine per cent rise in the Little Rock area and a three per cent hike in the district as a whole.

Compared with a like period of last year, sales in the district for a four week span ended Nov. 24 were two per cent higher with an eight per cent jump in the Little Rock area leading the way. Percentage increases were reported in all other areas also.

Petitions to Lower Hospital Tax

The Missouri Pacific Railway Co. has petitioned the Hempstead Quorum Court to lower the County hospital tax from 3 to one-half mill. This rate would retire the bonds next year, according to County Clerk Dick Turnage.

In connection with this proposal school officials were highly elated, reasoning that the district could now pass the five mills and the increase would only be two and one-half mills, Mr. Turnage said. The vote on the proposed millage increase will come next Tuesday. County Officials believe the court will approve the proposed reduction in the hospital tax.

Appeal Hearing in Police Case

MALVERN, Ark. (AP)—John R. Thomason, secretary of the Malvern Civil Service Commission, said today the commission would hold a hearing on Patrolman Clyde Warwick Jr.'s appeal of his dismissal from the city Police Department.

Police Chief Ray Traywick said Warwick was discharged for insubordination but Warwick said he was fired after Traywick ordered him to return to work and he could not because of a neck injury suffered in a scuffle with two men he was arresting.

Warwick, who has been on the force for three years, said he was seeking funds from the Arkansas Municipal Police Association to help him fight for his job. Lt. Joe Crain of the Hot Springs Police Department, an official of the MPA, was in Malvern Thursday checking into the case.

Plane Crashes At Idlewild, 25 Are Dead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW YORK (AP)—A four-engine airliner, feeling its way toward a landing through a hole in the fog smothering Idlewild Airport Friday night, crashed and burned, killing 25 of 51 persons aboard.

Survivors scrambled through emergency exits, crawling and running from the flames that engulfed the forward portion of the propeller-driven Eastern Air Lines DC7B, arriving from Charlotte, N.C.

Idlewild had been completely covered by fog earlier in the evening and Capt. Edward J. Bechtold, a veteran frequently used as an expert cross-examiner in government inquiries into crashes, told the passengers he might try to land at Philadelphia.

"We don't know what made him change his mind," said Leonard Clementi of Huntington, Long Island, one of the injured survivors. Another passenger, Lou Loufi, a movie producer from Dover, N.J., recalled the pilot announcing: "We can make it. There is a little hole. We should be down in about six minutes."

On instrument control, the big airliner started descending from the eastern side of the busy airport on Long Island, the side toward Queens, Brooklyn and Manhattan.

"We could see the lights as we came down," said Helen Fournier, 21, of Forest Hills, Queens, one of the two stewardesses on Eastern Flight 512. Both survived.

"Then we came down with a bang," she continued. "It was kind of quick. It seemed that the pilot was increasing the power, but we didn't get anywhere. Then there was a sort of flash. There was no explosion, though."

Several passengers recalled what seemed to be a desperate effort by Bechtold to get the lumbering aircraft back into the air. "The tail end of the plane hit the ground and the plane slewed around," said M. V. Little, 34, of Garden City, Long Island.

Hurting across a reed-filled marsh 200 yards west of the runway, and scattering debris for 300 yards, the aircraft smashed to a halt and burst into flames.

It split open down the back. Seats were tossed into the foggy darkness, some with bodies still strapped into place for landing.

Walter Mueller of Floral Park, N.Y., told of the thoughts burned into his memory: "The first thing that enters your mind is: 'I've had it. You're not sure in your mind that you're living. You just do things.'"

Inspection Brings Cut of Free Food

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Federal lunch program aid to five Arkansas schools was suspended after an investigation by state food and drug inspectors revealed dirty kitchens.

The funds were later reinstated after the schools had made satisfactory improvements, according to a health department report for the year ended June 30.

The schools were not identified but the inspectors said they were located in counties not staffed by Health Department sanitarians. About half the counties in the state are without sanitarians.

The five field inspectors with the Food and Drug Division of the Health Department made the investigation.

The inspectors said the schools had failed to provide minimum facilities for washing dishes, had improper food storage facilities or were "just dirty kitchens."

In the report, the inspectors also said the division took off the market 153.515 pounds of food, drugs and cosmetics found to be misbranded, adulterated or otherwise in violation of the food and drug laws.

The report said the division helped to apprehend five "quack" cancer and other medical specialists.

Never Pays to Jump to Conclusions

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions: Those who have won success in their careers are more fearful of failure than those still on the way up. Victory makes almost as many cowards as does defeat. It is only when you realize you have something to lose that you become really frightened.

It is far more exhilarating to get a $5 a week raise when you're 21 than a $50 pay hike when you're 51.

The most annoying word in the vocabulary of the average child today is "stupid." But if a parent lets his child call him that—and get away with it—one has to admit the child has used the word correctly.

No husband ever hung a picture on the wall that his wife didn't straighten as soon as he left the room.

More folks got to work on time when they kept chickens in the backyard. The advantage of a rooster over an alarm clock is that you can't turn it off, roll over and go back to sleep.

The reason we have less fun now is that we're all so sophisticated nothing surprises us anymore—and it's fun to be surprised.

Geography was easier to learn in the old days when everything that belonged to the British Empire was tinted pink on the map—and that took care of about half the globe.

Uleers are no real measure of importance. Borewry burns come down with them as well as executives with a Park Avenue office.

Few husbands carry an up-to-date photo of their wife in their wallet after she hits 40.

Charge accounts have ruined more men than blouses.

The three types of men who are latest impressed with the whims of women are male hairdressers, house painters and plumbers.

One of the great mysteries to most of us is, where do the stores keep during the rest of the year the stuff they put in their windows just before Christmas?

Convention Ends With Criticism

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The annual convention of the Arkansas AFL-CIO ended Wednesday in Little Rock with criticism of merger proposals of the nation's railroads.

A resolution stating that "the most massive efforts since the turn of the century" are under way to shrink railroad capacity and curtail services to the public through mergers and consolidations, was passed.

George Ellison of Little Rock was reelected to his second two-year term as head of the organization. Paul McClure of Benton was elected vice president to succeed Sam Selby, also of Benton. All other officers were re-elected.

The organization also passed a resolution condemning Senate Bill 2631, which would prohibit strikes and establish compulsory arbitration for segments of American industry, including any business enterprise engaged in production of any material essential to production of munitions.

Art Exhibit May Come to U.S.

PARIS (AP)—A French official is in New York discussing the possibility of sending the Mona Lisa and other famous art works from French collections for exhibit in the United States.

A spokesman for the ministry of arts and letters said a decision will be made after the official, Jacques Jaujard, secretary general of the ministry, returns next month.

Harriman and Sandys drove home the point that India and Pakistan as neighbors on the Indian subcontinent share a common peril from Chinese aggression.

Ayub Khan has been under pressure from many of the deputies to break off Pakistan's ties with the pro-Western CENTO and SEATO alliances because of the rush of the United States and Britain to build up Indian arsenals. Pakistani critics charge the rapid-fire guns and other weapons eventually will be turned against Pakistan.

Kashmir is the key issue. The ruling Hindu maharajah of Kashmir, whose 3½ million people are 77 per cent Moslem, decided to join Hindu India in 1947. But Pakistan troops and irregulars invaded the Himalayan border state, and Indians and Pakistanis were fighting an undeclared war.

Since 1949 U.N. observers have been on watch to uphold a cease-fire, with India in possession of including Ladakh which is now held by India in possession of about two-thirds of the country, including Ladakh which is now mostly occupied by the Red Chinese.

DOROTHY DIX

Should She Tell All?

By HEEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: I came to this town in 1954 with my little son, then a year old. Its people accepted my story of being a girl with a tragic early marital experience. As a young attractive divorcee, I became very popular, had many beaux but no desire to remarry.

During the ensuing eight years I established quite a place for myself in this conservative community. A family inheritance both parents died when I was a (teen) enabled me to remain with my baby those first years.

To keep my mind occupied I took several home study courses in secretarial work and office management. Now my boy is school age, I work in the local bank. All of this leads up to the big question. A well-known man has asked me to marry him. Ours is a mature and deep love, but — he is ultraconservative with a very strict sense of right and wrong. There are no nuances, no gray shadings in his code of ethics. Black is black and white is white. Should I reveal my past to him? Should I tell him the truth — that my baby was born out of wedlock and I never married much less divorced? — Wondering.

Dear Wondering: Better tell your man now than have him find it out later. It will be a test of his love. Take the attitude that you've fought a good battle and won it. All that truly matters in any experience is the effect of that experience upon you. Judging from your letter, this early trouble strengthened your character. It's a question of the man being worthy of you. If he's the right one for you, he'll love you all the more for your pluck.

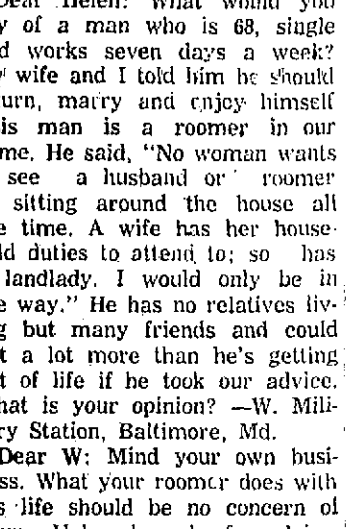

Dear Helen: What would you say of a man who is 68, single and works seven days a week? My wife and I told him he should return, marry and enjoy himself. This man is a roomer in our home. He said, "No woman wants to see a husband or roomer — sitting around the house all the time. A wife has her household duties to attend to; so has a landlady. I would only be in the way." He has no relatives living but many friends and could get a lot more than he's getting out of life if he took our advice. What is your opinion? — W. Military Station, Baltimore, Md.

Dear W: Mind your own business. What your roomer does with his life should be no concern of yours. Unless he asks for advice, don't give it. If he does, send a self-addressed stamped envelope for my leaflet, "Retirement." Although you and your wife are not related to this man, the following letter from a harassed reader answers your question:

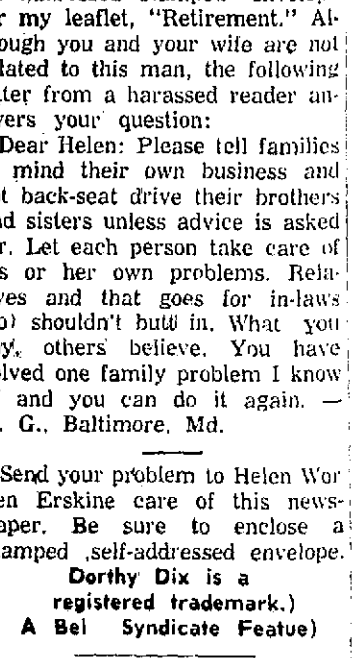

Dear Helen: Please tell families to mind their own business and not back-seat drive their brothers and sisters unless advice is asked for. Let each person take care of his or her own problems. Relatives and that goes for in-laws (too) shouldn't butt in. What you say, others believe. You have solved one family problem I know of and you can do it again. — G. G., Baltimore, Md.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine care of this newspaper. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Progress and State Water Projects

(A Circuit Editorial)

By Walter E. Huseman

Col. Warren Everett, district engineer, Vicksburg District, U. S. Corps of Engineers, had some words of encouragement this week for residents of Arkansas in general and the new Fourth Congressional District in particular.

For one thing, Col. Everett reported that work is imminent on the long-sought nine-foot channel for the Ouachita River. Contract is slated to be let early in the summer on the first excavations for one of the two new locks to be built in Louisiana and other construction is slated to follow. The channel work will stretch from below Monroe, La., to Camden in South Arkansas.

The economic implications of a river channel navigable by large two boats seem obvious even to the casual observer. The new waterway, observers believe, will put this area of South Arkansas and North Louisiana on par with the eastern coastal states and other waterserved cities when it comes to shipping rates.

But the one advantage which is not so obvious to the ordinary citizen is the tremendous possibility for outdoor recreation which the new project will make possible.

As Col. Everett put it — and Rep. Oren Harris of (D-Ark) agreed — the possibilities for recreation in the area are so great that the average person "has no concept" of just what the nine-foot channel will mean to the area.

For one thing, the present river channel will be "straightened" out with the excavation of about two dozen "land cuts" leaving a series of horseshoe — shaped lakes which will enhance Arkansas potentialities. Then, to, there will be such things as new sites for boat ramps, new camp sites, park areas, etc. all of which will add to the general attractiveness of the area.

But the good news that Col. Everett brought was not all confined to the southern half of the state. He revealed that a study will be complete in January on a proposed Benton dam which now looms nearer reality because of a "liberalization" in waterways policies at the federal level. Then, to, Col. Everett and Rep. Harris had an encouraging report on the DeGray dam which was ready "ahead" of nine — foot, channel plans due to the ironing out of local problems in connection with the DeGray project. The De Gray dam is under way, but the Benton reservoir project on the Saline river still isn't the preliminary stages although the later project now seems more nearly feasible because of the new Corps of Engineers policy which permits "a long look ahead" at the benefits of such projects to the areas in which they are located and to the country in general. In fact, this new "long look" policy calls for consideration of benefits foreseeable for the next 50 to 100 years.

Rep. Harris, whose new Fourth District becomes a reality in January, contends that the new district will have one of the greatest — if not the greatest — concentration of waterways projects in the entire country. We think this may well foretell the future for the area. It seems to us — and many of the country's leading industrialists have been quick to point it out — that the areas with the warm climate and recreational possibilities will attract the industry of the future when the work week and the work day will be at least as short, if not shorter, than they are at present.

Add to these assets the possibilities of good water transportation and the section of Arkansas affected by these new projects should have an almost unbeatable combination for enlivening its existing industry, and making the area more attractive to its present residents and others who may be brought into this area which has three great assets: its water, its land and its people.

Dismissal Appeal Is Indicated

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — Clyde Warwick Jr., said Thursday night he was appealing his dismissal last week from the Malvern Police Department to the city's Civil Service Commission.

He said the commission should receive a letter containing the appeal Friday.

Sgt. Fred H. Hall submitted his resignation from the force Thursday, but said Warwick's dismissal had only an indirect influence on the action.

He said he had quit to take a better paying job and because of "interference from sources that had no business being in my private life."

Warwick, a three-year veteran of the force, said he was seeking funds from the Municipal Police Association to help him fight for his job.

Police Chief Ray Traywick said Warwick was discharged for insubordination, but Warwick said he was fired because Traywick ordered him to return to work when he could not because of a back injury.

There were six other bidders. The school is expected to be completed in time for the next school year.

Wounded by Gun

DE QUEEN, Ark. (AP)—Henry Mixon, 67, of De Queen was critically wounded Thursday by a shotgun blast fired near an old railroad roundhouse in the Soap-sud Hollow section of De Queen. Police said their investigation was incomplete, but that a 65-year-old De Queen man was being held on an open charge.

Youth Held on Charges In Escape

INDIANOLA, Miss. (AP) - An 18-year-old Arkansas youth was held in the county jail here today on charges he aided a state prison escape in which a prison trusty was killed.

Louis Mahan of Blytheville, Ark., waived extradition and was brought here Wednesday to face a preliminary hearing.

Sheriff Wodley Carr of Sunflower County said Mahan admitted buying the mail Spanish-made gun used in the break, but denied smuggling it into the prison.

The sheriff said Mahan did not know how the gun got into Parchman.

Eight prisoners escaped from the sprawling prison camp on Oct. 24, taking over an ambulance driven by Milton Doss, 33, a prison trusty and ambulance driver. He was killed.

The three convicts who took over the vehicle were Len Williams, 33, of Washington County, Miss.; Roy Clay, 23, Blytheville, Ark.; and Edwin J. Berryman, Harrison County, Miss.

Authorities said they thought five other convicts in the ambulance when the break was made had nothing to do with the escape attempt. All were captured.

Sheriff Carr said he believed Williams was the gunman who shot the trusty and said there is evidence that Mahan smuggled the gun into the prison.

"Statements have been obtained from some prisoners who said Mahan smuggled the gun into the prison a month and a half before the break," Sheriff Carr said.

Carr said the gun was very small and could be hidden in one hand. He said there would be no difficulty taking the weapon into the prison despite searches.

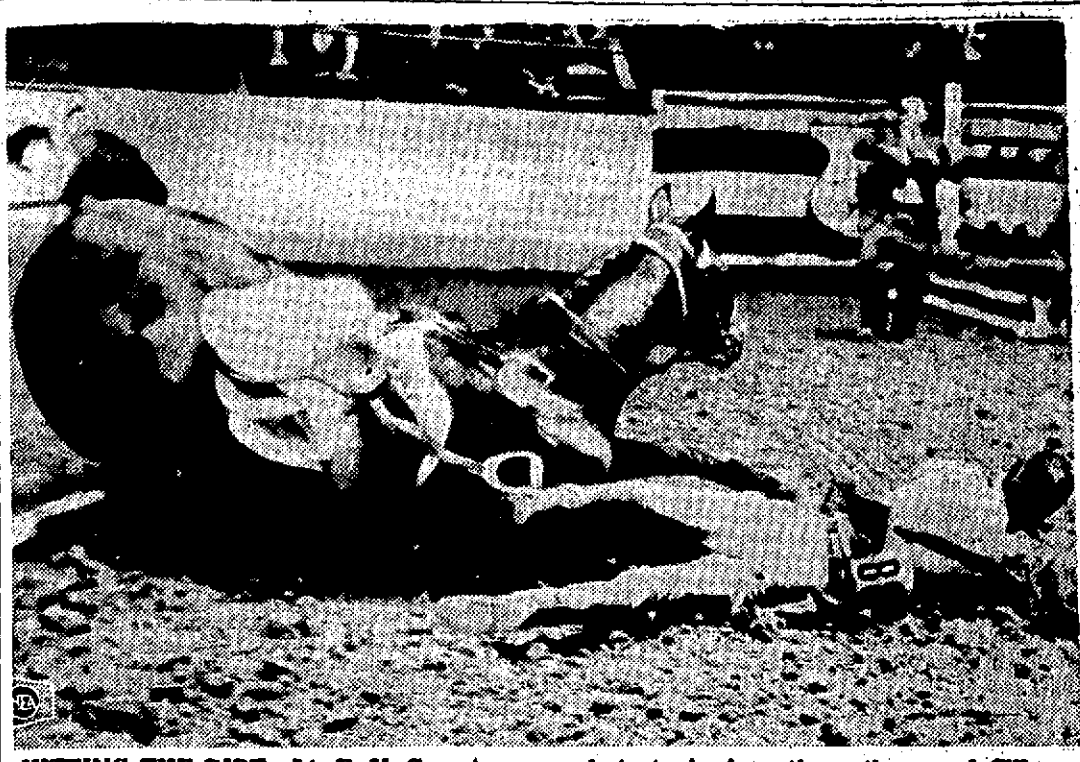

Recommend Abolition of Land Office

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The State and Local Governments Committee of the Arkansas Legislative Council recommended Wednesday abolition of the state Land Office.

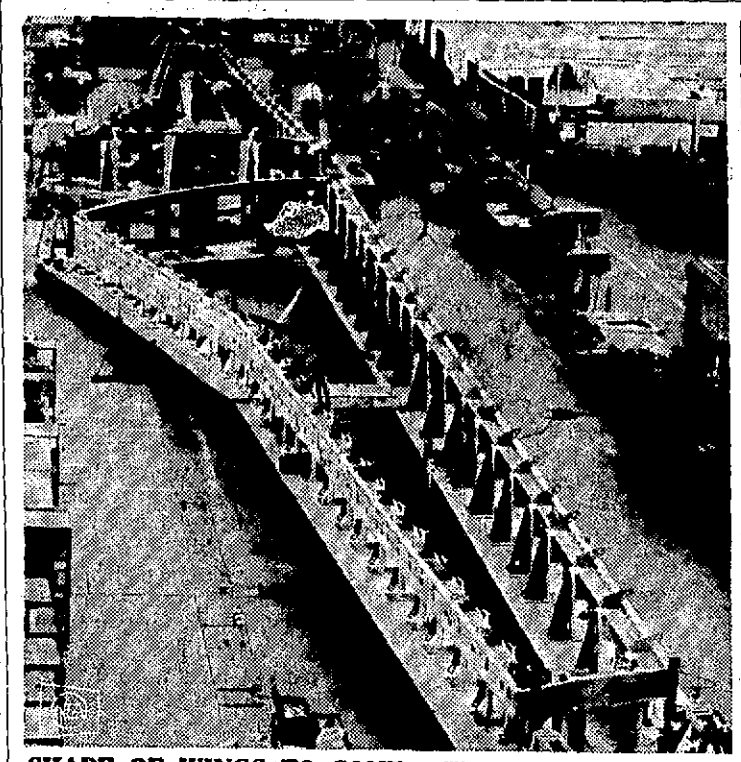

The full council will receive the recommendation and has the option of relaying it to the 1963 General Assembly.

Deletion of the office was recommended by Pulaski County Rep. J. H. Cotrell Jr. during an hour-long hearing. The department, administered by Commissioner Sam Jones, is inefficient and no longer needed, Cotrell said.

Cotrell suggested that county clerks could handle the agency's job of selling delinquent land. He proposed its records be transferred to the state auditor's office.

Dahl tugged on an end of his black moustache, swung a hard look around and fetched up his chin. The barekeep took a fresh grip on his bung starter. Beetle Brow's grin, above the snub-nosed pistol, spread in pleased anticipation. The other pair, spat on their hands and then, all together, the whole push moved in.

The gaunt stranger, sighing, looked extremely reluctant. Some claimed afterwards he never actually moved a finger until the barkeep's bung starter whacked against the mare.

Then everything seemed to happen at once. The Rebel's left boot, sailing up out of nowhere, took the barkeep under the jaw like a ball bat. He stretched six inches and went out like a light. Nobody saw the stranger reach for his iron but suddenly the glint of it was slicing through the tangle like the knives of a dozen Injuns.

It went whunk against something. Beetle Brow, without even time to let go of his pistol, went down with a thump, blood on his face. Bathsheba, with her head tucked between front legs, was kicking the bar when another of Dahl's bruisers went slamming head first into a wall and kind of wilted.

Rafe's gun started pounding. When it quit all those beautiful mirrors plus a sizeable number of stacked bottles and glasses were in shards on the floor and Dahl's eyes looked like they'd roll off his cheekbones.

"This has gone far enough," a new voice said crisply. A frock-coated gen tin a stovepipe hat, whiskers curling out of his jowls like piano wires, pushed from the crowd to stop by Dahl's elbow. Even Bathsheba left off what she was doing as, avidly silent, all heads swung to watch.

Dahl was so mad he was shaking, but the Cow Palace's proprietor managed after a fashion Cross County clerk.

Joe Wolfe of Little Rock, president of the Arkansas Land Title Association, asked that a central state office be maintained for keeping records.

The legislature could strip the department of funds, except for Jones $5,000 salary, but it would be necessary to abolish the department.

Previous efforts by Cotrell to get the department abolished have been stymied in the legislature, to get hold of himself. "Very well, Mr. Chilton," he said, like it choked him, "but who's going to pay for all that smashed glass and bar?"

A soft pale hand rasped the mulch-chop whiskers. "It can probably be arranged for some of the loss to be written off." Chilton's cold eyes scaled Rafe in shrewd appraisal. "Do you always react with such violence to stimulants?"

THIS KIND—Mare Anderson, 4, shows the sailfish sportsman may expect to catch during three international tournaments in the Florida Keys starting Nov. 24.

The legislature could strip the department of funds, except for Jones $5,000 salary, but it would be necessary to abolish the department.

Previous efforts by Cotrell to get the department abolished have been stymied in the legislature, to get hold of himself. "Very well, Mr. Chilton," he said, like it choked him, "but who's going to pay for all that smashed glass and bar?"

A soft pale hand rasped the mulch-chop whiskers. "It can probably be arranged for some of the loss to be written off." Chilton's cold eyes scaled Rafe in shrewd appraisal. "Do you always react with such violence to stimulants?"

Firmly Rooted

How strong are your roots? In Sequoia National Park one may read: "These Sequoia Giantea are of a noble lineage which bridges humanity back through eons of the age of reptiles. — Here dwell venerable forest kings in reveries which carry back a thousand years before Jesus Christ walked the shores of Galilee." How strong are your roots? "That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love, May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height; And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fullness of God." These reflect being well rooted. In a spirit of unity let us read: "Unto Him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout the ages, world without end. A-men." — Eph. 3:17-19, 21.

So They May See == Ephesians 6:1-16 == So They May Hear

CHILDREN, OBEY YOUR PARENTS in the Lord: for this is right.

- Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise;
- That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth.
- And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.
- Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh, with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ;
- Not with eyeservice, as menpleasers; but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart;
- With good will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men:
- Knowing that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free.

AND, YE MASTERS, do the same things unto them, forbearing threatening: knowing that your Master also is in heaven; neither is there respect of persons with him.

- Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.
- Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.
- For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.
- Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.
- Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness;
- And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace;
- Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.
